GIVING COUGS DAY 2017 Toolkit
2017 CAMPAIGN

As a web-only campaign, Giving Cougsday relies on the concerted effort of BYU campus communicators to spread the message and invite.

Match

A generous donor has committed to donate to the Inspiring Learning Initiative based on participation:
• $5,000 if 500 others donate on Giving Cougsday
• $10,000 if 750 others donate
• $20,000 if 1,000 others donate

Timeline

• October 30–November 18: Help explain what #GivingCougsday is and where it came from, share social media posts and emails about how donations make a difference. Post once or twice a week during high-traffic hours using hashtags that will increase the posts’ likelihood of being seen.

• November 19–25: The week of Thanksgiving, schedule two or three social media posts and at least one email, all of which should include a link to the giving page, give.byu.edu/cougsday17. Many people will be off work and will be spending time with family, so this will be a key week for increasing the campaign’s visibility.

• November 28: It’s Giving Cougsday! Boost your post and include the link to the giving page, give.byu.edu/cougsday17, to make sure it’s visible.

• November 29, 30: Report on the success of the campaign. Please share the news.

In 2012, BYU alum Aaron Sherinian helped the U.N. Foundation start a new worldwide day of giving called #GivingTuesday. Last year, BYU alumni and friends made it our own with #GivingCougsday, which brought in $139,212 for the University. Now we want to make #GivingCougsday bigger and better than ever!

But without your help, #GivingCougsday is just another wannabe holiday—like National Doughnut Day. We need your help to make it a success. Here’s what you can do:

1. Mark your calendar for November 28 and plan to visit donate.byu.edu/givingcougsday to donate on that day.
2. Tell your friends, especially BYU alumni, about Giving Cougsday.
3. Post something on social media. Did you receive a scholarship? Were you blessed by donated funds? Post on Facebook, Instagram, or Twitter with the hashtag #GivingCougsday and tell us how. And like the BYU Annual Giving Facebook page to hear more.

Together, we can make this year’s Cougsday one for the record books. Let’s see just how generous and passionate BYU alumni, friends, and fans really are!

When you donate to BYU, your gift goes a long way. And when BYU alumni and friends gave $139,212 on #GivingCougsday last year, it was huge for the university. Here’s a glance at how that money made a difference for BYU:
